President Dr. Clyde Dr. George Barnes

Dear Student:

I first would like to commend the Uticanite staff for doing an excellent job in depicting life on the Utica Campus. Their pictorial interpre-tation of our mission, purpose, and goals is truly amazing. It shows that this institution is wholeheartedly dedicated to sound, quality education and to developing the entire individual into a productive citizen. It is my sincerest desire as vice president of the Utica Campus that each of you have taken full advantage of the opportunities you encoun-tered here. Many challenges have been thrust your way in an attempt to draw the greatest potential from you. We varied your opportunities, as exemplified in this yearbook, so that you could have a taste of what you will face in the "real" world — the world outside of this educational institution.

As an institution staffed with very capable educators, we can only do so much. You, as students, must take the initiative to rise to your utmost potential. We offer you the needed guidance and instruction, but it is up to you to make everything work favorably for you. Life and learning do not end on this campus. This is only the beginning. The foundation is laid here, but you must build on what you have achieved on the Utica Campus to determine "What Lies Beyond."

Sincerely,

George E. Barnes Vice-President

President's Message

It is definitely befitting that the Uticanite yearbook's theme for 1999-2000 is "What Lies Beyond." As we enter the new millennium at Hinds Community College, we are experiencing a rapidly changing environment. These changes include such things as construction of new facilities and improvements in educational

The Utica Campus has been a major player in adapting to changes at the institution. The construction of new technology building at this campus will greatly benefit students who are part of the Student Learning Assistance and Information Technology programs. Computer labs, an electronic classroom, television and audio control rooms, an editing room, and state-of-the-art media production equipment will keep students abreast of the everchanging educational technology tools needed for success in today's

Also, in the area of educational technology, Utica Campus students will benefit from the College's purchase of PLATO software. This educational tool is tailored to meet the individual needs of those who use it, from those in developmental studies to those enrolled in regular college credit courses. Moreover, the institution is integrating the new Colleague administrative software system which will improve the student registration process.

The Utica Campus is accepting the challenge with the world around it. Therefore, there is a bright future at this location of Hinds Community College.

World's Largest Cathedral Hosts Utica Julilee Singers

"This trip has been the highlight of my career," remarks an exasperated Dr. Bobby Cooper, Utica Campus humanities chair and choral director.

On May 17, Dr. Cooper and the Utica Jubilee Singers, consisting of fifteen young men, along with two chaperones and a cameraman, boarded a twelvehour flight headed to Rome, Italy. The trip was an invitation from the American Celebration of Music in Staly, Music Celebration International (MCI).

A lot of people heard us perform and thought we should do something outside of the United States," says Dr. Cooper. "I think the catalyst to our invitation was when we performed last year for the Rotary Club in Champaign, Ollinois, during our mid-western trip," Cooper continues. "That group sub-mitted my name to MCD. We sent them a tape and they wrote and asked us to represent the state of Mississippi during their celebration this year." "Cooper's eyes sparkled as he recalls receiving the invitation. "D was ecstatic. Chis was an opportunity of a lifetime and T was not about to let it pass us by," Cooper recalls. "Many people think that the Fish Jubilee Singers were the most popular of the Jubilee Singers, but, they were not. The Utica Jubilee Singers were the most popular and is noted as the premier group of the Jubilee Singers," Cooper adds.

After ten months, hundreds of solicitation letters, bake sales, and others means of fundraising, the Utica Jubilee Singers began their eight-day fairytale journey.

Day one — For many of the young men, this was their first flight. The full meal and beverage service, and in-flight entertainment during their trans-Atlantic overnight flight was an experience of anastasia.

Day two — The group arrived in Rome, Italy, at approximately IAM on May 18. They were greeted by Annamaria Massimi, their town guide. The group was unable to check into their rooms until that afternoon. Although they were tired, hot, and thirsty, the Jubilee Singers were quite excited. They toured the city. They were assigned a motor coach and driver during the trip, yet, much of their touring was done by

"The streets were narrow and the bus could go only so far; then we would have to walk. Believe me! We did plenty of it," says Cooper. "We got in shape our first day there, with all of the walking that we did," he adds. After checking into their rooms the group relaxed before having dinner at the hotel. It was early to bed after that because their schedule called for an early rise.

"Day three - Up at the crack of dawn, the group's first stop was at the famous Colosseum. The Singers were in for a half-day quided tour of Imperial Rome, including the Roman Forum. " It was an adventure to see," Cooper begins. "It was something that we had read about and seen in history books, and there we were. In a historical place," he continues. The group walked around and saw the ruins of the Colosseum. They saw where the Gladiators were trained to fight, where the Christians were persecuted by the lions, where the animals were kept, where the people sat, and many other sites of the Colosseum. "The Colosseum is so steep in history," says Cooper. "It is something to behold," he

Cooper and the Jubilee Singers during their tour, went to view the cathedral. "We wanted to just see the place prior to our performance. It was our way of chasing away or easing our jitters," Cooper says. At 4PM that afternoon, the Jubilee Singers arrived in the Vatican City area for their 5PM preformance.

"The artwork in this place took your breath away. But, we could not take too much time viewing this magic," says Cooper. So, we rushed through to where we were to sing and back on the bus to the hotel to get dressed," he adds. Cooper talked about how they stopped traffic on their way back to the cathedral. "There we were. Streched out behind our tour guide who was swiftly walking, veering in and out, and through the crowded streets, on our way to the cathedral," Cooper remembers. They finally arrived.

People were everywhere," Cooper says. "As we looked, there seemed to have been an ocean of people and they were still coming," ' Our tour guide, who was fleunt in several languages, would give us a que as to when we were to sing," Cooper continues. Everything went perfect from beginning to end," he adds. The Jubilee Singers performed four selections during the mass with the first one being Ava Maria by Biebl. The Singers also sang one spiritual and two classicals. Our performance had an angelic sound,' Cooper says. "Maybe the acoustics helped to create that kind of magic, or maybe it was all just us," Cooper laughs.

After the mass, the crowed just swarmed us, complimenting us on our performance. That made us really feel special, aside from the high in which we werr already on," Cooper says, summing up the per-

The group could then relax. After their 7:30 PM dinner reservation at the Mangrovia Restaurant, the group returned to the Parkhotel Fiano Romano for the night.

Day Four — The day began with a half day guided tour of Vatican City, the home of the Pope and the center of Roman Catholicism, the Vatican Museum, St. Peter's Cathedral and the Sistine Chapel.

"The ceiling was all done by Michael Angelo," Cooper says. "It is an artist's, dream." Among the artwork of biblical settings, events, and characters are The Last Supper and The Last Judgement. In the Chapel is filled with paintings that come alive before your eyes, according to Dr. Cooper. You marvel in the awesomeness of the characters' authenticity and in the brilliance of the artist's masterful gift," he concludes

That afternoon, the group visited the Pathadome, the Arch of Constantine, and other famous spots. Dinner reservations we were scheduled for 6:30PM at LaCabana Restaurant followed by a brief period for relaxation and preparation for their second scheduled concert. After the 9:00PM Concert at Basilica "San Nicola in Concere," the group returned to the hotel and retired for

Day five — After an early morning breakfast, the Jubilee Singers checked out of their hotel on their way to Florence. Traveling through the mountains viewing the beautiful country was an adventure, says Dr, Cooper. The group preformed a concert at one of the churches in Siena en route to Florence. Dr. Cooper was given a book from the priest containing information about the cathedral in which they performed. From there, the Jubilee Singers travelled to Vienna. They visited several shopping areas in Siena before arriving in Vienna, "the city on the

"If T ever go back to Italy, T will go to Vienna," says Cooper. "The city is gorgeous and the boat ride coming into the city was relaxing. I felt like I was in a whole different world," Cooper says. "The atmosphere was so relaxed. Seeing people on the water relaxing and just having a good time put you in a mood of ecstasy. We took some pictures in the square and ended up doing a concert right there in the square," Cooper says. "The crowd just went wild," he adds in laughter that filled the room.

The Jubilee Singers ended their day in

Day six — Chis was the first morning of all mornings during their tour that the Singers were reminded of the joys of home. They feasted on a hot American buffet breakfast. Then, they departed for a three-hour city tour of Florence. Among the places they visited were the Uffizi Gallery, one of the great Fine Arts. The afternoon was spent relaxing in preparation for their 9:15PM concert at Church Santa Maria De Ricci. "We were so warmly received and the people fell in love with us every place we went," adds Cooper.

Day Seven - It was day two a royal treat. Again, the Singers were treated to a hot American breakfast before departing for Venice. The Jubilee Singers arrived in Venice-Mestre during mid morning. They went to Cronchetto for roundtrip transportation to and from San Marco by public boat. After lunch in Venice, the group toured the city by foot with visits to St. Mark's Cathedral , Doge's Palace, and the glass factory. The two-hour tour left the Singers exhausted. They took a couple of hours of relaxing before their 6PM performance.

We were relaxed and ready to go," says Cooper. "We were comfortable and confident that we would do well because we were prepared. The warmth and genuine hospitality with which we were greeted helped us tremendously," Cooper adds.

At approximately 5:30PM, the motor-coach carrying the Utica Jubilee Singers pulled onto the San Samuele Church parking lot. Thirty-five to forty minutes later, the Singers were in rare form; carolling, humming, and harmonizing a variety of religious compositions. "The church was filled and everyone seemed to have enjoyed our concert,' said Cooper. Day Eight — "We left Vienna and went to Milan. D was especially interested in Milan because that is home of LaScala Opera House,'' Cooper speaks in awe. '' T teach my students about LaScala and we visualize its appearance, and there 9 was standing in the midst of this monumental structure," Cooper's exuberance overflows. It was like a dream for me because there are only two major opera companies in the world; Metropolitan in New York and LaScala," Cooper dramatically expresses. "We toured this place where all the famous opera singers in the world have performed," he concludes with greater excitement and laughter.

The group toured Milan where they visited the shopping squares which were like covered domes, according to Cooper. "The shopping squares were filled with some of the finer specialty shops," says Cooper.

The people couldn't seem to get enough of us. It was a pleasureable tour," Cooper sums up his trip. "We always ended with a song they knew, '@ Happy Day,'"

This was not the first out-of-country tour for the Utica Jubilee Singers. Their first trip was to Europe in 1927.

The Utica Jubilee Singers is the most famous of all Jubilee Singers, according to Cooper. "Many people thought is was the Fisk Jubilee Singers, but it is the Utica Jubilee Singers," says Cooper.

The Utica Jubilee Singers was formed in 1903 by the founding fathers of Utica Normal and Industrial Institute. The group served as ambassadors for the school in helping to raise funds to support the institution. They also served as recruiters for the school, an effort that continues to this day.

What On Earth Happened?

The Middle Ages, though plagued by feudalism, heralded gallant knights and the governing ideals of the Magna Carta. The Renaissance and The Enlightenment both saw great achievements in art, science and exploration, followed by Romantic and Revolutionary periods in France and colonial America.

As industry and capitalism grew, so did Communism in the Soviet Union and beyond. The World Wars and other 20th century conflicts brought struggles for power amid vast advancements in communications and technology.

History's movers and shakers included Joan of Arc, the teenager who led France to victory against England in 1429, and Martin Luther whose religious reforms shocked the 16th century. King Henry VIII of England kept his head while several of his spouses lost theirs. Sir Winston Churchill helped England stand courageously against Nazi Germany. One recent hero is Nelson Mandela, South Africa's first black president and anti-apartheid activist. Time marches on...and the next chapter is already being written.

And The Wall Came Tumbling Down

In 1961, the Berlin Wall was erected to prevent residents of Communist East Berlin, Germany, from fleeing to non-Communist West Berlin for a better way of life. In 1989, the East Germans opened the Wall, lifted immigration restrictions and reunited Germany. Tearing down the Wall symbolized the end of the Cold War, which started when the Soviet Union created "Iron Curtain" countries isolated from the Western world. In the '50s, fear of communism in the United States resulted in the "Red Scare."

Currently, Christmas is a multi-billion dollar business with wreaths, mistletoe, stockings, movies, outdoor decorations and cards.

Crusading Towards The Holy Land

When Muslims took control of the Holy Land during the Middle Ages, Christians from Western Europe vowed to recapture the area. Nine major Crusades were organized with kings, nobles, peasants, and even children taking part. None was successful. Holy wars have continued to rage in such places as the Middle East, including the Six-Day War between Israel and Egypt in 1967.

In A Flash, A-Bomb Creates Nuclear Age

On August 6, 1945, a U.S. plane, the Enola Gay, dropped an atomic bomb on Hiroshima, Japan, annihilating the city and nearly 130,000 of its citizens. Japan surrendered soon after, ending World War II. Because of Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor, resulting in America's participation in the war, and the Holocaust atrocities perpetrated by Adolf Hitler's Nazi Germany, the destructive effects of World War II would live in infamy.

Concerns prompted public health improvements, including garbage collection and disposal, water treatment and food processing.

Setting Off An Explosion

With the world population now topping 6 billion and increasing at an annual rate of 1.6%, more people are living now than have ever died. The population is rising because of high birth rates coupled with much lower death rates as a result of better living conditions.

The Craze That Wouldn't Lettuce Alone

The threat of war may have loomed in Lebanon, but the real fighting broke out in toy stores between frenzied parents who found Cabbage Patch Kids in short supply before Christmas in the '80s. The miniskirt caused a sensation in Swinging '60s London and beyond. The 3-D thrill of the Viewmaster was love at first sight. Then along came Magic Eye, random dot stereograms that revealed 3-D images hidden in colorful graphics with holograms that practically jumped out. Life had become a virtual reality.

As The Rubik Turns

More than 200 million people twisted their way to the 3-D solution of the Rubik's Cube puzzle in the '80s. Some tried memorizing the cube's configuration while it was still in the package. Preoccupation with puzzles dates back to the first jigsaw puzzles in the 18th century. The world is still trying to solve crosswords, word searches, "Where's Waldo?" and other brain-busting challenges.

That's Pretty Fad-tastic!

Leaders. Followers. The millennium caught every generation a bit off-guard, but folks quickly had the lingo and the look down. When Elizabethan life got ruffled around the collar, everyone copied. Then poof! Powdered wigs, some several feet high, got nobles noticed in the 17th century. How about wooden teeth in Washington's time? By George, it beat having none at all!

As the years passed, women wore the bustle and disco freaks did the Hustle. The '50s poodle skirts bred '70s dog tags, '80s spiked dog collars and '90s Old Navy mutts. Who knew there'd be just as much fur-vor over Davy Crockett coonskin caps in the '50s as with raccoon coats in the '20s?

While some slipped on shining armor, carefree flapper dresses and Calvin Klein jeans, others followed different fads. Joysticks maneuvered

Pac-Man into the arcade hall of fame. Suddenly everyone cared for Pet Rocks, squeezed into phone booths, pounced on Pog, pierced body parts and chose CB radio handles. Will there be as many "must haves" next millennium? Only the Magic 8 Ball knows for sure.

Arts Imitate Life

Nearly every civilization during the millennium expressed its culture and defining events through art and architecture. Great painters, musicians, authors and sculptors vividly captured the emotions of their day. Early Romans built coliseums and staged comedies. Byzantine mosaics and icons reflected Eastern Christian beliefs while Chinese painters produced deft landscapes.

The Middle Ages fostered the rise of Gothic cathedrals, poet Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" and finely woven tapestries. In the Renaissance, William Shakespeare pumped up a volume of still-popular plays.

Michelangelo busily sculpted his marble marvel David. Novelists such as Jane Austen characterized the Romantic Movement of the 18th century while the 19th century promoted Impressionist painter Monet, socially-conscious authors including Charles Dickens and the riverside adventures of Mark Twain.

Ballet legend Nijinsky leaped on the 20th century arts scene. Picasso broke with tradition to pioneer Cubism and Dali turned dreams into surreality. Don't forget Dadaism, Mamaism and Norman Rockwellism. Opera was a trill a minute with stars including Beverly Sills and Luciano Pavarotti.

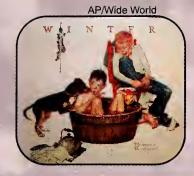

Stephen King and Ann Rice chilled with horror novels, while Ernest Hemingway and John Steinbeck proved more down-to-earth. Broadway was Neil Simon-ized, then "Lion King"-ized.

When 19th century French sculptor Auguste Rodin created his bronze work, The Thinker, he used his knowledge of anatomy and movement to capture intensely human emotions as great Renaissance and Baroque sculptors Michelangelo and Bernini had done before him. Many 20th century sculptors crafted more experimental works, such as Marc Chagall's mobiles and Marcel Duchamp's creations from discarded materials.

Smile. You're On Canvas Camera

Renaissance master Leonardo da Vinci's 1503 portrait of Mona Lisa, the wife of a silk merchant, was extraordinary with its dramatic dark/light contrasts and ultramysterious smile. A face immortalized in history was a cinch if one happened to know such artists as Rembrandt, Van Gogh, Toulouse-Lautrec or Wyeth. Many painters, however, opted for religious scenes, still lifes and landscapes.

Scream I: The Terror

Willie Make It Now?

Sixty-year-old Willie Loman spent his life way out there in the blue, riding a smile and a shoeshine, a salesman extraordinaire. Arthur Miller's drama, "Death of a Salesman," became one of the most riveting plays ever staged as it questioned the American dream and explored the depths of failure. During the 20th century, audiences have witnessed other gripping dramas such as "A Raisin in the Sun" and "The Glass Menagerie."

Call it the face that launched a thousand album covers, t-shirts and manic-depressive sufferers. Norwegian Edvard Munch's 1893 painting, The Scream, was an anguished cry of isolation and fear that influenced the 20th century Expressionist movement and reminded us of our own stressed-out lives. Vincent Van Gogh and Edgar Allan Poe were among other desperate artists and authors of the time.

Clawing Its Way To The Top

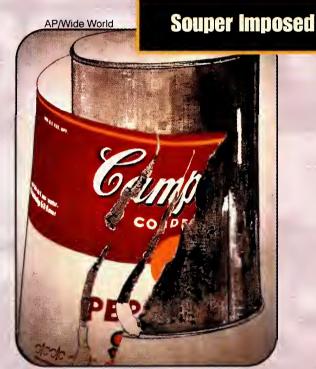

After Andrew Lloyd Webber picked up T. S. Eliot's Old Possum's Book of Practical Cats at an airport, he grabbed the theater world by the tail as creator of "Cats," history's longest-running musical. The 20th century set the stage for vaude-villian singing and comedy acts, as well as some of the greatest musicals to hit Broadway: "Showboat," "Porgy and Bess," "Phantom of the Opera," "Hello, Dolly!" and "The Lion King."

Sometimes You Feel Like A Nutcracker

In 1892, Russian composer Peter Tchaikovsky turned the The Nutcracker into a beloved holiday ballet with his remarkable suite. Twentieth century dance gained popularity as composers wrote musicals that were imaginatively choreographed, including George Gershwin's "An American in Paris." Music and dance partnered dramatically with the Tango—followed by the carefree Charleston, Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers' ballroom elegance, the Jitterbug, the Twist and Disco.

Andy Warhol did much "Mmm' Mmm! Good! for the art world when his silkscreen print, "32 Campbell's Soup Cans," was exhibited in 1962. From there, the white-haired artist commented on popular consumer culture, coining the term "Pop Art." His other creations involved striking images of mass-media icons Marilyn Monroe and Elizabeth Taylor. Warhol helped other pop artists including Roy Lichtenstein and Leroy Neiman, enjoy their 15 minutes of fame.

Music of the millennium started on a somber note with the Gregorian chants of monks and ended on samba, "La Bamba" and "Living La Vida Loca." French troubadours roamed the countryside with poems and tunes in the Middle Ages. Lutes and flutes added richness to the Renaissance, while chamber music was Handeled well in the Baroque period.

Beethoven, Mozart and Tchaikovsky crowned the classical music of the 18th and 19th centuries. Strauss then waltzed in to share the spotlight and Sousa marched over to greatness. The birth of the Blues and Jazz brought Billie Holiday and Duke Ellington, followed by Big Bands and the easygoing Swing era.

With a twist and shout, Rock & Roll cruised in from Elvis Presley, Chuck Berry, Jimi Hendrix, KISS and Aerosmith. "We Are the World" provided musical relief and Farm Aid helped heal the heartland. Patsy Cline and Willie Nelson added that country twang, Sinatra made the songs so smooth, and folks listened happily ever after.

The Gloved One's 1982 "Thriller," containing such hits as "Beat It," became the best-selling album ever. Before the rhinestones, there was Detroit's Motown label, which signed Michael and his Jackson 5 brothers when he was still learning his "ABCs." With the toast of '60s soul—The Supremes, The Temptations, The Miracles, Stevie Wonder music couldn't get mo' betta than Motown.

beckoned the jukebox, the first electrically amplified automatic phonograph. From the 1930s to the 1960s, it held memories of teenage years and breakup tears. Covered in chrome, the jukebox magically queued up that special 45. The transistor radios, 8-tracks, CD jukeboxes and discmans that followed just couldn't carry a tune quite as well.

Louis Armstrong blew away the competition with his virtuosity on jazz cornet and trumpet. New Orleans-born Satchmo (his cheeks puffed like a satchel when he played) became one of the greatest jazz musicians of the 20th century with recordings like "West End Blues." His wordless "scat" singing influenced other jazz greats such as Ella Fitzgerald. Dixieland Jazz, Boogie-Woogie, Beebop, Cool Jazz and Electronic Jazz have carried on the tradition.

Betcha dollars to jelly donuts that Elvis Presley will always be the King, with his swivel hips and voice that thrilled fans on The Ed Sullivan Show and the big screen. He burned up the charts with hits like "Hound Dog" and "Jailhouse Rock." He also popularized Las Vegas casinos with his shows, spawned Elvis impersonators and sparked kitschy trends like Graceland's jungle prints, shag carpeting, flashy jumpsuits and long sideburns. Thankyuhverymuch.

The Wild, Wild Woodstock

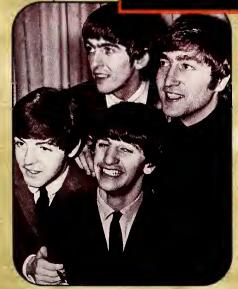

The Woodstock Music and Art Festival, an Upstate New York be-in that hosted music's grooviest stars from August 15-17, 1969, was to be the largest rock concert ever. An unexpected 500,000 fans, from hippies to anti-war protesters, braved traffic jams to witness this far-out trip guided by legends including Jimi Hendrix, Jefferson Airplane and Janis Joplin. Not bad for a single day's ticket price of $8. Woodstock later inspired such mega-concerts as Lollapalooza and Lilith Fair.

Who was this sexy singer who burst on the scene in her 1984 "Like a Virgin" video? Madonna set off a wannabe frenzy. Changing her look and style like a chameleon, she proved no one-shot wonder, continuing to wow audiences with her music, dancing, acting, tours and business sense. She also paved the way for other exciting female rock acts including Janet Jackson, En Vogue and Alanis Morisette.

How'd four lads from Liverpool turn the music world on its ear? Once "I Want to Hold Your Hand" and a string of Beatles' hits reached #1, teens screamed for more. John, Paul, George and Ringo rushed into the studio and, armed with great melodies, created some of the most amazing songs of the 1960s, from "Yesterday" to "Eleanor Rigby." Yeah! Yeah! Yeah!

Going After A Cure

Despite numerous medical milestones, curing diseases such as AIDS and cancer eludes the population. In the '80s, Ryan White, a hemophiliac, contracted HIV through blood transfusions and later died. The AIDS virus is the latest epidemic civilizations have battled. The Bubonic Plague killed 40 million by the 14th century and the Typhoid Fever outbreak of the early 1900s claimed countless lives as well. Vaccines now prevent such diseases as smallpox, but any mutations could pose a threat again.

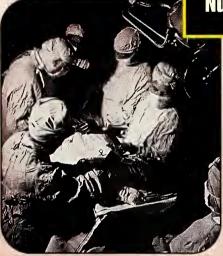

It Does A Body Good

Consumers have become more concerned about keeping healthy, germ-free and well-groomed from head to toe. During the Middle Ages, baths were rarely taken, but today showers and baths are taken daily in order to keep clean and healthy. Today toothpaste, deodorants and mouthwash are used daily. Vitamins and natural herbs are popular and medical advancements keep folks functioning better.

Numb And Number

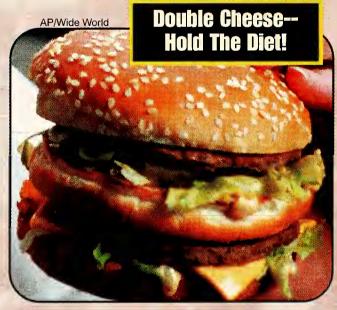

Prior to the use of anesthesia during operations, early surgeons and barbers cut veins to drain "bad" blood, or sucked it out with leeches to cure patients. Boiling oil was sometimes poured on wounds to sterilize them. Before nitrous oxide and ether were introduced as anesthetics in the 1800s, most operations weren't performed at all. Surgical conditions were unsanitary, causing infections to spread rapidly.

The Fact of Life

In the Middle Ages, the average life expectancy in Europe was about 30 years; today it is more than 70 for both men and women. Improved nutrition, sanitation, disease prevention and disease treatment are some of the main reasons for the increase.

Workers on the run were sold sandwiches from horse-drawn lunch wagons in the 1870s. America's fast food frenzy hit the road with the diner in the '40s and it's been burgers, fries and vending machines ever since. McDonald's put fast food on the map in the '50s, and its Big Mac Attack proved unstoppable. KFC, Arby's and Taco Bell have even sprung up in school cafeterias, airports, grocery and convenience stores. Would you like Beanie Babies with that?

With the average life expectancy rising, people will try liposuction and tummy tucks, facelifts and collagen injections to stay younger looking. RK and LASIK procedures make contact lenses and glasses obsolete for many, and hearing aids are almost invisible. Heart, lung and other transplants give new hope, as do today's medicines compared to the quack cure-alls of the 1800s.

Health Yourself

The mysteries of medicine, better health and longer living were revealed as the millennium unfolded. Diseases prevalent in early times were conquered through improved medicine, sanitation, immunization and eating habits, although other factors such as high cholesterol, smoking and junk foods brought on such foes as heart disease, cancer and obesity. The Food and Drug Administration now ensures proper processing to kill bacteria and preserve foods longer.

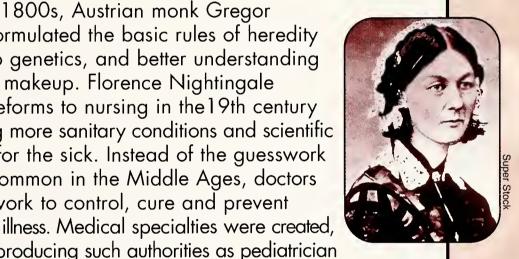

In the 1800s, Austrian monk Gregor Mendel formulated the basic rules of heredity that led to genetics, and better understanding of human makeup. Florence Nightingale brought reforms to nursing in the 19th century including more sanitary conditions and scientific care for the sick. Instead of the guesswork so common in the Middle Ages, doctors now work to control, cure and prevent

Curling Irons

Bodybuilding became a pumping iron passion after ex-97 lb. weakling Charles Atlas promoted his "Dynamic Tension" muscle-producing exercises in the early 20th century. In the '80s and '90s, Arnold Schwarzenegger wannabes bench pressed and lifted weights in the gym so they could burn fat and get fit. Coming And Going Attractions

Getting around was slow and hard during the beginning of the millennium but somebody had to do it. In the Middle Ages, horses got saddled with pulling wagons transporting goods and passengers for long distances. Viking ships found rough sailing to Greenland and later America, but compasses and better construction of vessels in the 1400s made voyages and overseas trade possible.

Canals and paved roads hastened travel in the 1700s and the first major U.S. Highway, the National Road, created road rage in the mid-1800s.

After Robert Fulton invented the steamboat, British inventor Richard Trevithick helped develop the locomotive.

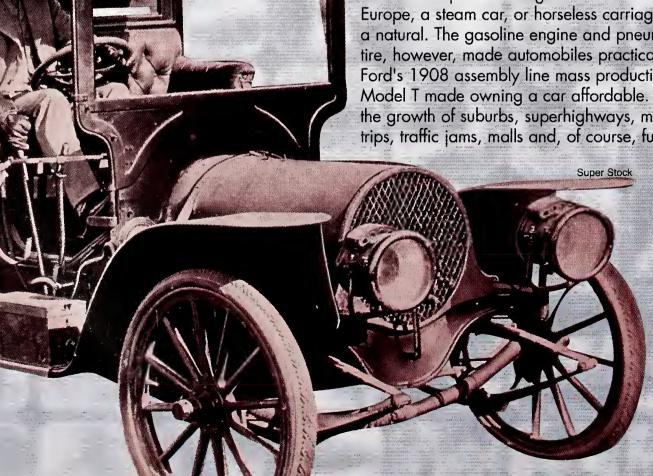

Life guickened as travel and hauling freight became more economical.

Electric trains, streetcars and gasolinepowered engines drove transportation into the modern era. Suddenly automobiles putt-putted along and sprouted everything from running boards to fins. Airplanes soared, subways roared and spaceships explored. The risks of progress have also been great, such as the loss of pilot Amelia Earhart and her plane on an around-theworld flight in 1937, the Space Shuttle Challenger explosion in 1986 and numerous airplane crashes.

Tomorrow's transportation could include human teleportation and faster-than-light travel. The ride's been pretty good so far, but inevitably some still ask, "Are we there yet?"

Once steam-powered engines invaded 18th century Europe, a steam car, or horseless carriage, seemed a natural. The gasoline engine and pneumatic tire, however, made automobiles practical. Henry Ford's 1908 assembly line mass production of his Model T made owning a car affordable. This led to the growth of suburbs, superhighways, motels, roadtrips, traffic jams, malls and, of course, fuzzy dice.

In the 1860s, the Central Pacific Railroad laid track eastward from Sacramento, California and the Union Pacific Railroad laid track westward from Omaha, Nebraska. The Transcontinental Railroad was finished in 1869 when both railroads met in Promontory, Utah. Coast-to-coast freight and passenger lines dramatically increased settlements and trade. Today's subways, light rail and ultra-fast bullet trains move commuters like crazy and make good action movie sequences.

You'd be brave and dirty if you traveled in the bumpy horse-drawn wagons that existed before stagecoaches arrived in 1670. Stagecoach lines carried passengers and mail along routes in the West. Passengers defied hard seats and bandits such as Jesse James. Settlers came in covered wagons along with their freight, forming wagon trains that sometimes traveled only one mile per hour. Folks with the need for speed rode horseback.

Da Plane! Da Plane!

Leonardo da Vinci dreamed of flying machines with wings, but it took centuries to get the concept off the ground. The Montgolfier brothers were full of hot air when their balloon ascended in 1783. Orville and Wilbur Wright had the right stuff and flew the first successful airplane in 1903. Charles Lindbergh and Amelia Earhart flew far and solo, and Chuck Yeager broke the sound barrier. Today, airplanes carry millions of business, pleasure and military passengers. But airline food still hasn't improved much.

Let's All Funnel Through The Chunnel

Sure beats getting seasick in a bumpy hovercraft or swimming it. In 1994, the chunnel made the world smaller by linking the continent of Europe and the United Kingdom via railway tunnel underneath the choppy English Channel. The high-speed Eurostar train can transport riders from London to Paris in just three hours. Will the future bring travel under the great oceans? Across the universe? Or back in time? Oops...that last one's already happening. It's called the re-introduction of the Volkswagen Beetle.

Are We There Yet?

With the many modes of passenger transportation that have evolved, there are ever-faster ways to reach a given destination, especially for those with friends in high places.

So what's the best way to travel from Los Angeles to New York City (2,824 miles) nonstop?

In the Cold War, the scientific power of the U.S. and Soviet Union rested on advances in space. After Sputnik I probed space in 1957, chimps, dogs and finally men rocketed into the sky. We Get Game

Sports gained popularity as time lunged forward. While forms of games resembling soccer were played during the 10th century, life rarely allowed time-outs for recreation. Thank goodness for the 1600s, when the English played Rounders, a baseball predecessor, and Scotland saw early rounds of golf. By the 1800s many people led the sportin' life, including James Naismith who invented basketball, and the students of Canada's McGill University who scored with the first hockey rules.

Native American athlete Jim Thorpe won fame in early 20th century Olympic track and field, as well as football and baseball. Babe Didrickson, his female counterpart, excelled in golf as well as track and field.

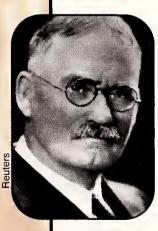

As baseball became a pastime and football a passion, Babe Ruth and Hank Aaron belted pitches "outta here," Jackie Robinson broke color barriers, Joe Namath threw footballs and John Elway busted Broncos loose in the Super Bowl.

Today sports revolves around such stars as heavy-hitter Ken Griffey, Jr., golf sensation Tiger Woods and hoops immortal Michael Jordan. Amateur and school sports are also serious stuff. Millions are on the fast track with NASCAR auto racing, on the edge for extreme sports and in the ropes for wrestling.

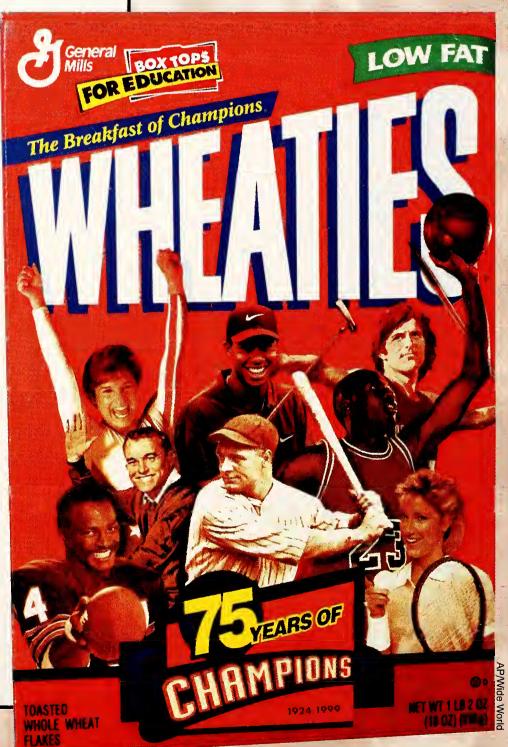

What really makes an athlete like home run king Mark McGwire a hero? Getting on General Mills' Wheaties cereal box, of course. There's nothing flaky about the morning mania created since 1924 by "The Breakfast of Champions." Sports merchandising—from corporate-sponsored Bowl games to endorsement deals—seems like the hottest game in town.

Before modern boxing was introduced in the 1700s, the sport was brutal, with no rest periods or gloves allowed. Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Rocky Marciano emerge victorious in the 1900s. But no fighter jabbed and jested like Muhammed Ali. Quick, agile and boastful, "The Greatest" even wrote poems describing how he would defeat opponents. He also made heavyweight contributions to the community and human rights.

The Russians hadn't lost an Olympic hockey game since 1968, but they were iced over by the 1980 U.S. hockey team's "Miracle On Ice" victory at Lake Placid—which led to an eventual gold medal. Since the modern Olympic Games began in 1896, heroes such as track star Jesse Owens, figure skater Tara Lipinski, platform diver Greg Louganis and the 1996 women's gymnastics team have inspired sports fans everywhere.

Recent top seeds such as Pete Sampras and Martina Navratilova have settled for anything but love by dominating Wimbledon and other championships.

The Ladies Who Win

America got a kick out of the U.S. Women's soccer team, which won the 1999 World Cup by defeating China. Their victory proved that anything men can do, women can do just as well. Big milestone: President Richard Nixon signed into law Title IX, giving girls equal access to school sports like football.

How Did It Come Into Play?

Baseball, bowling and other familiar sports didn't just appear out of the blue. Here's a roster of some game origins.

Baseball: Cooperstown, NY 1839. Abner Doubleday based his new sport on bat-and-ball games such as "one old cat." He adopted the diamond-shaped field for his game and assigned playing positions. Bowling: Germany, third century.
Every German peasant carried a club called a kegel for protection. In church, faith was tested by setting up the kegel as a target (representing the heathen) and rolling a stone to try to knock it down. Those who succeeded were considered free of sin.

Fencing: Italy, 16th century. Fencing began in ancient times as the practice of swordsmanship to prepare men for duels and warfare.

After Thomas Edison invented the commercial motion picture machine, the Kinetoscope, in 1893, projection machines greatly enlarged a film's image. This led to one of the 20th century's most popular forms of entertainment, the movie. Sunny Hollywood beckoned such film directors as D.W. Griffith, who revolutionized film editing with The Birth of a Nation in 1915. Silent films made quiet stars of comedian Charlie Chaplin, handsome Douglas Fairbanks Sr., Rudolph Valentino and Jean Harlow.

Blockbusters have ruled recent movies. Sylvester Stallone punched up Rocky. Harrison Ford dodged madmen and meteors in Star Wars and Raiders of the Lost Ark. Armageddon and Titanic astounded audiences with their mega-dollar budgets. Tom Hanks, Julia Roberts and Will Smith became idols at 24-screen multiplexes.

"Soitenly" audiences loved comedy teams such as The Three Stooges in the '30s and '40s. Those n'yuk n'yuk n'yukleheads pulled punches to make 'em laugh. Fate of the Union

From the wilderness came a nation ready to fight for freedom and survive all odds. Native Americans had lived in the continent long before European explorers and colonists arrived in the 16th century. Thirteen British colonies formed, and the Revolutionary War erupted when England tightened control, and Paul Revere warned of the oncoming British invasion. Independence and the United States of America were both declared in 1776.

The new nation weathered heat from France and Mexico, but acquired new territory such as the Louisiana Purchase. After gold in California was discovered in 1849, America heard the roar of the Civil War, Reconstruction and Native American warriors such as Geronimo. Industry growth fueled prosperity until

World War I and the beginning of the Great Depression. Two heroines, Rosie the Riveter and First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt, emerged during World War II. Peace efforts chilled as the Cold War, Korean War and McCarthyism isolated the U.S. from Communist nations.

Life prospered in the suburbs and man rocketed into space, while civil rights struggles ignited. President John F. Kennedy was struck down, as were countless soldiers in Vietnam. Then President Richard Nixon struck out after the Watergate political scandal. The Gulf War, pollution and tragedies such as the Oklahoma City bombing hit hard in recent decades. Yet Americans still rally around the Stars and Stripes.

President Abraham Lincoln called it "A House Divided." The United States was unofficially split between the North (the Union), which sought to abolish slavery and modernize America, and the South (the Confederacy), which favored preserving slavery and an agrarian lifestyle. States became one nation again.

The 1920s roared with prosperity until October 29, 1929, Black Tuesday, when the New York Stock Exchange crashed and millions of shares of stock were suddenly dumped, plunging many into poverty. Franklin D. Roosevelt defeated President Herbert Hoover in the 1932 election. Roosevelt worked to end the Great Depression with the New Deal. Since then, America has survived inflation, recession, tax cuts, and somehow, lunchroom food.

When It Was Grander On The Verandah

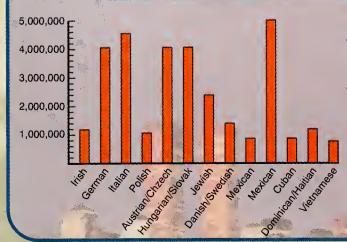

It was a simpler time called "The Good Old Days." The front porch, or stoop, was the nightly gathering place for several generations of family and friends. Evening breezes and conversation filled the air while a passing parade of buggies and neighbors moved past. Maybe it was the coming of television, indoor air conditioning or the faster pace of suburban communities that caused the front porch to disappear.

The Voice That Launched The Vote For Women

In 1869, Susan B. Anthony helped found the National Women's Suffrage Association to seek equal rights for women. Her efforts led to passage of the 19th Amendment in 1920, giving women the right to vote. Other women's rights leaders furthered the cause, including Gloria Steinem and Betty Friedan. Role models such as astronaut Sally Ride and Supreme Court Justice Sandra Day O'Connor opened still more doors.

A gift to the United States from France in 1884, she has welcomed millions of immigrants to American shores with her towering presence in New York Harbor. TOOM SIMULATED 1300

We're All Ears

In Depression-era America, radio was not only a necessity but a reassuring source of comfort. Turning the dial brought cheery hit songs, soap operas, comedies, news of the world and President Franklin D. Roosevelt's encouraging fireside chats to the nation. Though the nation later became obsessed with television, radio kept up its cool beat with rock music, talk radio, rap and other listening pleasures.

Revenge Of The CyberNerds

Going geek is a good thing if your name is Bill Gates. Computers revolutionized the speed and accuracy of information processing, ever since a punch card machine tabulated the 1890 census. In the 1970s, a computer's entire workings fit on a chip. Things got PC when Microsoft created software programs, making Gates a "bill"-ionaire. The Internet logged on in the '90s with waves of Web sites, interactive games, chat rooms and all-important e-mail. Pretty incredible.com, eh?

In the late 1800s, some newspapers took Freedom of the Press too far. To gain new readership, some of America's leading newspapers began sensationalizing accounts of Spanish oppression in Cuba to provoke America's entry into the Spanish-American War. After this outbreak of "yellow journalism," news media took great measures to heighten credibility, though tabloid-style reporting still exists. On the flip side, investigative reporting gained popularity in the 1970s by exposing government corruption, such as Watergate, as well as improper business practices.

Storming The Network

No sooner had the Persian Gulf War erupted in 1991 than Ted Turner's Cable News Network, CNN, covered it nonstop. Broadcasts had never been so immediate. The Big Three networks were also shocked by the popularity of such other cable offerings as HBO, ESPN and A&E as well as satellite dishes and payper-view. Television viewers, however, loved all the remote possibilities.

"Mr. Watson, come here," said Alexander Graham Bell into the telephone he developed in 1876. It's become one of today's most valuable communication devices, linking people throughout the world at lightning speed.

From the telephone's humble beginnings have emerged high-speed fiber optic

Get The Message Already?

People spoke, wrote letters and sent messengers before this millennium but communication was usually local and slow. Most Middle Ages books were religious because church leaders were among the few who could read. Monks copied books by hand and town criers were heard since they announced news. Printed books of the Renaissance allowed the masses to read the Bible and other works. By the 1600s, newspapers enabled inquiring minds to read ship schedules. Benjamin Franklin helped establish regular postal service in the 1700s and the Pony Express ran mail cross-country in the 1800s.

While steamships and locomotives sped the spread of news, it wasn't until Samuel Morse invented the telegraph in the 1840s that coded messages were transmitted rapidly. Cameras, the type-writer, telephone, phonograph and motion pictures put communications on an even faster track.

Advances came in short and long waves when Guglielmo Marconi invented radio. Television was perfected, and tape recorders came into play. Since the 1960s, communication satellites relayed TV, radio and other signals across the planet.

Computers and modems instantly processed data, and the Internet linked the world. Broadcast journalists, such as 20/20's Barbara Walters, fueled the rise of information junkies. Fiber optics, VCRs, CD-ROMs and HDTV not only furthered technology but gave adults lots of expensive new toys.
